The reading and study of this small volume will present these principles to the eyes of many engineers and should lead to many improvements in the art of heating and utilizing heat. In this it will be of service; this is the highest recognition which can be given to an author.

HENRY LE CHATELIER.

NOTE.—The foregoing was written by Henry Le Chatelier for the French edition, which appeared in 1914.